

The list of the top players of the day who had endorsed cues that were made by Peradon's is like a who's who of Snooker & Billiard players of the era. Probably the most famous Billiard player being Walter Lindrum who signed over the use of his name on Cues to Peradon. His nephew Horace Lindrum also had cues as well as such players as Joe Davis - some of these professional endorsed cue ranges must have come with the take over of Weildings - see their 1956/7 catalogue.

Walter Lindrum's letter allowing Peradon to make and sell cues with his name on without any royalty payment! This letter was as a result of a visit to Australia by Mr. Peradon and according to a later letter written in in April 1954 to Walter Lindrum's agent seems to relate to monies owed to Peradon.

In 1966 the company was 'disturbed' as the result of local planning arrangements from their premises in Willesden and so the company was moved to new modern factory premises at Andover in Hampshire, where Mr. Bill Peradon aided by Mr. Charles Gage continued the successful operation of the business.
